C2W Group

Founded on Quality. Never Compromising.

Quality 2 West's origins began from within the Quality Control department of China 2 West Services Ltd a South China based manufacturing and supply chain management company founded in early 2005 in Hong Kong. The China 2 West team has quickly grown from a small group of dedicated engineers, project managers and quality control operatives into a 60+ team of specialists with offices throughout China and across the globe.

It soon became clear that while the China 2 West customer base continued to expand among clients looking for turn-key or all-in supply solutions there was also a growing requirement for affordable day-rate quality services for those purchasers already buying direct from China factories or with tight product margins unable to accommodate the cost of an all-encompassing service package. This rapidly expanding market need coupled with what we viewed as a failure among the well-established large inspection agencies to provide the level of service we felt our clients and all clients deserved led to the formation of Quality 2 West as its own dedicated entity.

As our team and reach has continued to rapidly grow over the past 9 years our commitment to our core values and company principles remains steadfast whether dealing with a large-scale multinational or lone entrepreneurs making their first foray into the world of manufacturing. At Quality 2 West we pride ourselves on providing much more than your typical third party inspection service offering a truly personal approach individually tailored to meet your needs.

Quality lies at the heart of any manufacturing activity and Quality 2 West offers a wide range of affordable fully customized inspection, audit and testing services wherever you are in the cycle.

Experience the 'Q2W difference' first hand and take control of your supply chain today.

At Q2W we pride ourselves on providing much more than your typical third party inspection service.

Here are some of the key reasons Q2W stands out from the crowd and has become Asia's fastest growing quality service provider:

Impartial Opinions Unlike the majority of inspection agencies we do not contract independent QC engineers on day-rate terms or part-time contracts in an attempt to expand our reach and keep overheads down. While it would be easy to dress up a sub-contractor in a branded t-shirt and play them off as an employee at Q2W we instead believe in building a stable and consistent in-house team on which you can rely. We are happy to show you the employment record for your allocated inspector on request.

Experienced Inspectors Our strength lies in the abilities of our highly qualified and well trained quality engineers. You will be introduced directly to your allocated project manager who will oversee all facets of your inspection. Repeat inspections will whenever possible be conducted by the same member of the Q2W quality team ensuring in time you develop your own on the ground expert who you can truly look on as an extended member of your own team.

The Full Picture At Q2W our aim is to truly understand your supply chain and report back with much more than a simple 'PASS' or 'FAIL'. Our experienced team will even on successful inspections recommend areas which could be improved for future production or in the case of a fail report back with our unbiased recommendation on the best course of corrective action.

Flexible Approach At Q2W we are truly flexible in our approach. Rather than force our clients to work within a set rigid system we instead work with you to customize our approach to meet your needs. This can include incorporating your branding in place of our own within documents or even setting up our team with your company email address to report directly to your clients.

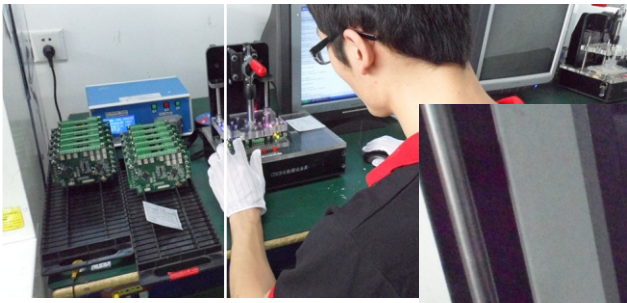

A Delicate Touch For a first inspection or audit on one of your existing suppliers, we would normally ask for an introduction by e-mail to your factory contact. We will set things up from there. Introducing a third party quality control agency can be a delicate matter particularly if you are experiencing quality issues with your current vendor.

Personal Service Are you tired of working within a faceless automated QC booking system? At Q2W we engage our clients directly from the offset to truly understand your products, manufacturing processes, project history and supplier network.

100% Confidentiality At Q2W we take your privacy seriously. We'll be happy to dispatch an original signed copy of our NDA agreement by DHL for your records.
